

Selskabet for Ernæringsforskning (SfE) – Danish Nutrition Society
Invites to meeting about

Nutrition for the elderly

Friday, January 8, 2015, Auditorium A2-81-01 Thorvaldsensvej 40, Frederiksberg
(see map below)

13:30-13:35 Welcome

President of Danish Nutrition Society, Susanne G. Bügel

13.35-14:05 Strategies to support food intake in persons living with dementia

By RD PhD FDC Heather Keller, Schlegel-UW Research Institute for Aging &
Department of Kinesiology, University of Waterloo

14:05-14:15 Questions

14:15-14:45 Sensory aspects of aging

By Associate Professor Annemarie Olsen, Sensory and Consumer Science, Copenhagen University

14:45-14:55 Questions and discussion

14:55- Networking and refreshments

As a nutritional epidemiologist and dietitian, Heather Keller conducts research and translates this knowledge to support the food and fluid intake and nutritional care of older adults. Vulnerable older adults who are frail or who have dementia are a special focus.

Annemarie Olsen works with various types of research related to human eating behavior in the area of sensory and consumer research, primarily focusing on children. Main topics are different intervention strategies to direct current food preferences in a healthier direction, and investigating how contextual factors influence both our food choices as well as amounts consumed.

Participation in the meeting is free of charge, but please register at the homepage (www.sfe.dk) no later than Wednesday, January 6
All are welcome to participate!

